Key Takeaways

- Nine corporate defaults in November took the year-to-date total to 108, still well below the 2024 level of 135. U.S. defaults for the month numbered four, the lowest monthly count since February.
- The chemicals, packaging, and environmental services sector (CP&ES) led monthly default activity, accounting for five of the nine November defaults. The sector's year-to-date total reached 16, double the eight recorded over the same period in 2024.
- Missed payments accounted for four of November's defaults, the most of any factor and the first time this year they have been the primary cause of defaults.
- We expect speculative-grade default rates to fall to 4.0% in the U.S. and 3.25% in Europe by September 2026, driven by easing rates, slowing inflation, and modest economic growth.

S&P Global Ratings' global corporate default tally was nine in November 2025, after the following defaults in the month:

- Canada-based oil and gas company Canacol Energy Ltd.
- Germany-based chemicals manufacturer SK Mohawk Holdings S.a.r.l.
- Luxembourg-based packaging solutions provider Ardagh Group S.A.
- Luxembourg-based packaging solutions provider Kleopatra Holdings 2 S.C.A.
- Mexico-based chemicals producer Braskem Idesa S.A.P.I.
- U.S.-based cleaning and sanitation services provider Packers Holding LLC
- U.S.-based consumer fashion accessories maker Fossil Group Inc.
- U.S.-based energy infrastructure company New Fortress Energy Inc.
- U.S.-based polyurethane foam products and solution provider FXI Holdings Inc.

U.S. Corporate Defaults Eased

Monthly corporate defaults fell to nine in November, from 10 in October, taking the year-to-date total to 108--broadly in line with the five-year average of 106 and still below the 135 recorded in 2024.

U.S. defaults in November halved to four, the lowest monthly count since February, while European defaults rose to three, from two in October. This marks the third consecutive month of increased defaults in Europe, albeit from a low base.

S&P Global Ratings expects the U.S. trailing 12-month speculative-grade corporate default rate to ease to 4.0% by September 2026, down from 4.6% in September 2025. Resilient earnings and gradually improving financing conditions should support the decline. Our optimistic scenario projects a decline to about 3.0%, while our pessimistic case anticipates an increase to about 5.5% if trade tensions re-emerge, policy uncertainty increase, or financing conditions tighten and renew pressure on weaker issuers. In Europe, where the default rate remained at 3.6% in October, we expect a gradual decline to 3.25% by September 2026. Our optimistic case forecasts 2.0%, while the pessimistic scenario projects 4.5%, reflecting the region's persistently large share of 'CCC+ and below' rated issuers and sensitivity to trade and growth risks.

November Defaults Are Concentrated In The CP&ES Sector

Defaults in November were predominantly in the CP&ES sector, which accounted for five of the nine and 16 year-to-date--double the eight over the same period in 2024. Three of the five November CP&ES defaults occurred in Europe, including Luxembourg-based Ardagh Group S.A., which defaulted amid sustained earnings pressure and a highly leveraged balance sheet. Outside Europe, Mexico-based Braskem Idesa also defaulted, due to persistent margin weakness and refinancing challenges in a stressed petrochemical environment.

This rise in defaults comes as the sector in Europe faces a stalling recovery due to subdued demand, economic uncertainty, cost disadvantages (particularly in the commodity chemical sector), and lower capacity utilization. Most other sectors saw flat or declining default counts year over year, including media and entertainment, where defaults fell sharply to nine from 22. The consumer products sector leads total defaults year to date at 19, unchanged from 2024.

Defaulted Debt in Europe Climbs After Months of Lows

S&P Global Ratings

The total volume of outstanding rated defaulted debt surged to $17.3 billion in November, more than double the $6.7 billion in October. Over 70% of this amount was from the CP&ES sector, driven by five defaults. Luxembourg-based Ardagh Group S.A. alone accounted for $6.4 billion of defaulted debt, followed by Braskem Idesa with $2.1 billion.

Europe saw a sharp increase in defaulted debt in November, with three CP&ES-related defaults totaling $9.4 billion. This marks the first month since June 2025 that Europe's defaulted debt materially exceeded that of the U.S., accounting for 64% of the global total compared with just 14% in October.

Missed Payments Drove Nearly Half Of November Defaults

Missed payments accounted for four defaults in November and were the leading reason for defaults this month. This is the first time this year that missed payments have been the primary driver of defaults. Missed payments represented $7.4 billion of total defaulted debt, while three distressed exchanges and two bankruptcies contributed $7.8 billion and $2.1 billion, respectively.

Overall, distressed exchanges remain the dominant cause of defaults in 2025, with 57 cases accounting for 52.8% of all defaults. Their share has increased steadily in recent years and is now near record highs, just below the 53.3% peak in 2024. Distressed exchanges have become a preferred option for lower-rated issuers seeking to avoid more disruptive bankruptcy filings.

S&P does not act as a fiduciary or an investment advisor except where registered as such. While S&P has obtained information from sources it believes to be reliable, S&P does not perform an audit and undertakes no duty of due diligence or independent verification of any information it receives. Rating-related publications may be published for a variety of reasons that are not necessarily dependent on action by rating committees, including, but not limited to, the publication of a periodic update on a credit rating and related analyses.

To the extent that regulatory authorities allow a rating agency to acknowledge in one jurisdiction a rating issued in another jurisdiction for certain regulatory purposes, S&P reserves the right to assign, withdraw, or suspend such acknowledgement at any time and in its sole discretion. S&P Parties disclaim any duty whatsoever arising out of the assignment, withdrawal, or suspension of an acknowledgment as well as any liability for any damage alleged to have been suffered on account thereof.

S&P keeps certain activities of its business units separate from each other in order to preserve the independence and objectivity of their respective activities. As a result, certain business units of S&P may have information that is not available to other S&P business units. S&P has established policies and procedures to maintain the confidentiality of certain nonpublic information received in connection with each analytical process.

S&P may receive compensation for its ratings and certain analyses, normally from issuers or underwriters of securities or from obligors. S&P reserves the right to disseminate its opinions and analyses. S&P's public ratings and analyses are made available on its Web sites, www.spglobal.com/ratings (free of charge), and www.ratingsdirect.com (subscription), and may be distributed through other means, including via S&P publications and third-party redistributors. Additional information about our ratings fees is available at www.spglobal.com/usratingsfees.
